How does the Crash Recorder work?

The Crash Recorder records data from 20 seconds before until 10 seconds after an accident. The following accident data is saved:

- Date and time of the accident
- Acceleration in the direction of travel and in a sideways direction
- GPS location and vehicle speed

Only AXA can view and evaluate this information. This makes it possible to draw conclusions about the causes of the accident. The Crash Recorder contributes to the quick and objective reconstruction of an accident and provides legal certainty.

Goals and motives

Thanks to the Crash Recorder, it is now possible to reconstruct the events leading up to an accident more precisely and more quickly. AXA wants to make the most of this benefit while also helping to reduce the risk of an accident. We are convinced that the Crash Recorder has a preventive effect because drivers in cars equipped with a Crash Recorder take fewer risks and drive more carefully.

Technical features

The Crash Recorder

- is not a surveillance instrument. It records data only in connection with an accident.
- permits the objective reconstruction of a collision thanks to these data.
- is connected directly with the vehicle and is 100% maintenance-free.

Installation and removal

The costs of the device and its installation by DESA, where necessary, are covered by AXA. If you no longer wish to use the Crash Recorder, your advisor must amend your insurance contract and the Crash Recorder must be removed. If you need help with its removal, DESA will assist free of charge. You should then return the Crash Recorder directly to ryd suisse AG. The corresponding free return label is already included in your initial Crash Recorder package.
